Set in the heart of Sibirien - a historic yet quietly vibrant enclave - these top-floor attic apartments offer an urban retreat. Surrounded by older turn-of-the-century buildings, the 1960s property introduces a modernist layer to the neighbourhood's architectural narrative.

Along Roslagsgatan, a curated mix of wine bars and cafés shapes a lifestyle rooted in culture and everyday rituals - a rhythm reflected in the atmosphere of the homes.

Defined by the rational clarity of the era, the apartments embrace the boxy, efficient layouts characteristic of 1960s architecture.

INSPIRATION

Introducing our inspiration board, a curated collection of images and ideas crafted to ignite your creativity and convey the essence of our vision for both attic apartments.

Through carefully selected textures, colours, and styles, we aim to evoke a sense of atmosphere that aligns with the architecture and the aspirations of the project.

COLOUR & MATERIAL PALETTE

In selecting this potential colour palette for your consideration, we've drawn inspiration from the urban lifestyle of Sibirien in combination w the Scandinavian 1960's - yet in a modern way. Warm, soft light tones, darker wood and subtile patterns.

The materials and hues are intended to infuse your space with a feeling of personality yet warmth, creating a calm environment that fosters creativity and life. By embracing these colours, we aim to capture the essence of the architecture, offering you a palette that reflects both your surroundings at the same time holding space for a personal style.

KITCHEN INSPIRATION

The kitchen is designed as a box-like layout, forming a pod within the room. Wall and base cabinets in a lacquered finish with a slim frame are combined with tall cabinets in walnut. Walnut cover panels frame the overall layout for a cohesive appearance.

Minimalistic spots in col white, place in pairs.
Wall lamps in brown bronze.
